Amelia N. Jadoo is Of Counsel in the firm's Government Division, bringing over 15 years of experience in business and government practice. She advises and counsels municipalities on a variety of issues relating to Sunshine laws, Public Records Act, ethics, land use, zoning, education law, and day-to-day governance matters. Amelia represents elected officials and board committee members during public meetings; analyzes, drafts, and negotiates contracts; drafts resolutions and ordinances; and approves agenda items. Amelia also advises and represents private clients in pre-litigation matters to resolve contract disputes, prepare demand letters, engage in settlement negotiations, and develop litigation strategies. As a former litigator, she effectively counsels her clients to avoid and mitigate litigation risks, and works closely with her clients to navigate emerging legal issues. Amelia is an effective problem-solver who is passionate about approaching her client's needs in an ethical, efficient and collaborative manner.

Before joining the firm, Amelia served as an Assistant County Attorney for Dakota County in Minnesota. In this role, she advised the County and its various departments and public officials on a wide variety of legal issues related to data privacy, cybersecurity, corrections, employment, eminent domain/condemnation, collections,
